Roles of Women in Ancient Egypt

Presented by Stephen
"Dr. Steve" Phillips, Ph.D.
Penn Museum

---

Monday, May 18 at 6:00 PM

In the ancient culture of Egypt, women were not merely silent witnesses in a male-dominated culture. They were able to obtain a divorce, own property, and craft their own wills. Women of ancient Egypt played central roles in the family life, as well as holding important positions in numerous aspects of ancient Egyptian society. Relying on archaeological and anthropological research, this lecture will illuminate the roles of royal and non-royal famous ancient Egyptian women.
